INSIDE

Intent

future fantastic

Instead of playing it safe with a neutral white palette, the owner of this home was confident enough to explore some truly creative design solutions that pushes the envelope for a look somehow manages to be futuristic and retro at the same time.

The use of bold colours in the bedrooms undoubtedly plays a part in creating a fun-filled and inspiring ambience that would not look out of place in a trendy boutique hotel.

The uniquely designed doors, inset with coloured glass panels which sets a tone that some designers define as 'mod' that is inspired by the Swinging 60s which celebrated the explosion of fashion and space exploration with bold and futuristic design.

In the living and dining area, grey slate-effect wallpaper dominates the space that serves to make the vibrant orange and red accent colours found in the dining furniture and area rug stand out even more.

cheerful leaders

This small but cheery apartment is a welcome antithesis to the monotonous drone of neutral palettes. Step into this burst of vibrant citrus colours and one cannot help but smile in wonderment.

Besides the bright orange accents, the childlike simplicity of this interior is also expressed through the back-to-basics furnishing and lighting choices. The bare-wire chandelier for example, dominates the living room.

The rest of the home is filled with delightful yet simple details while its owner was careful to select furnishing with clean lines and avoid over-embellishment and allows the colours to stand out.
